CONGRATULATIONS

To our very first Action On Film International Film Festival Lifetime Achievement Award Recipient:

MR. DAVID CARRADINE

David Carradine (born John Arthur Carradine December 8, 1936 in Hollywood, California) is an American actor and former Marine.

He is the son of actor John Carradine, the brother of Keith Carradine, and half-brother of Robert Carradine. He starred in the television series Shane, but was best known for the role of Kwai Chang Caine in the series Kung Fu. He has also played many roles in motion pictures, beginning with one as a gunslinger in Taggart, a 1964 western film based on a novel by Louis L'Amour. Most recently, he played the title role in Quentin Tarantino's Kill Bill volumes one and two, starring Uma Thurman.

He currently appears as the host of Wild West Tech on the History Channel, taking over the duties from his brother Keith.

David Carradine is also known for producing and starring in several exercise videos teaching Tai chi and Qi Gong exercises.

O.K., that's the factual scoop but what about the first time you saw him walk across that hot sandy desert on the opening sequence of Kung Fu- the lone warrior? Or when he single handedly took on the wild wild west with no gun, just his feet and his open hands? You have to admit, David Carradine is the man!

2005 AOF
LIFETIME
ACHIEVEMENT AWARD
WINNER
DAVID CARRADINE

David Carradine made karate cool nearly forty years ago and there is no telling how many martial arts careers he started or how many instructors have made a living based on his introduction of the arts to the American public through television and his ground-breaking show.

All of us wanted to be him when we stepped into that martial arts studio for the first time. All of us wanted his cool persona and his kick butt abilities. And then again almost four decades later he does it again, even better with the Kill Bill films. Who else could have done that role and struck the collective nerves that he did when he picked up a sword and faced down Beatrix Kiddo? How many of us wanted him to finish her off just because we hated to see our hero of so many years bite the dust? For my money I would have liked to see Bill win that fight.

There have been so many other roles the man has played that they are far too many to mention here. Let it suffice to say that because of his contributions to film, television, music and the arts that we recognize MR. DAVID CARRADINE as the recipient of the very first

FESTIVAL LIFETIME
ACHIEVEMENT AWARD

And who would you say, deserves it more?

Thank you Mr. Carradine!
