The Action On Film International Film Festival IX August 16-23, 2013 Distributors Information

Now in our 9th Season, the AOF Festival continues to move toward bringing our filmmakers, writers, producers, stars and directors the best possible festival experience. Part of that experience is the incredible AOF Film Market. We have striven to give our filmmakers the best chance to monetize their films, shorts, docs and more through distribution via some of the best in the business. Join us for 2013 and join these great companies with the opportunity to represent your films.

Headed up by long time AOF Supporters and Partners Ray Cavaleri and Ted Warren, the Film Market was responsible for over 35 of our projects receiving distribution; in 2013 we would like to double that number.

Here is a listing of our distributors for 2013. They will be available at our Distributor Pavilion located at the Krikorian Theater for the length of the 2013 Event.

we now offer VOD & DVD world wide

Digi Distribution is a Video On Demand (VOD) distribution company that offers filmmakers the opportunity to get their films on iTunes, Netflix, Hulu, Cable VOD, and more. We offer filmmakers 70% gross profits from the film. There no middle men, 100% of what all networks pay goes directly to DiGi Distribution.

Digi Distribution was created to help rights holders maximize the payback from their work and investment. More specifically, DiGi Distribution was conceived in 1999 by Nick Soares as an idea for a traditional distribution company, but as founder Nick Soares furthered his career in the industry, he found many flaws in "traditional distribution" - flaws that everyone seemed to ignore. Only after receiving distribution for all of his films did he realize how DiGi Distribution could benefit all indie filmmakers seeking distribution. Finally after 13 years, DiGi Distribution has come to life as a solution to the traditional distributors!

Specialty: Features 60 minutes or more - Any Genre

(All rights must be cleared, i.e. Music, Logos etc.)

Acquisitions are based on Approval of the film.

Fairway Film Alliance, LLC was established to be the 'fair and competent worldwide sales/distribution company that we can't currently seem to find in the independent film community'. The Fairway Team offers a wealth of knowledge and expertise in all aspects of film, from writing and production to finance and worldwide distribution of independent films.

Fairway's core mission is to work with filmmakers and producers to ensure their projects become successful, both creatively and financially. Fairway's approach is unique in that not only do we want to sell your film, but also partner with filmmakers on a long-term basis and cultivate strong relationships for future endeavors.

Fairway is currently seeking completed 'Films, Documentaries and TV Series' in all genres. We are not presently funding outside projects, although we can become involved with projects to assist filmmakers at various levels of the production process.

American Media Group, Inc. (AMG), based in Burbank was formed in 1995 to provide management, development, production and marketing expertise for feature films. AMG produced the award winning film festival favorite CHARLIE VALENTINE in 2009. Two of the producers, Ted Warren and Ray Cavaleri are attending AOF again this year with the goal of assisting filmmakers in acquiring distribution for their films.

AMG's involvement in the Action On Film Festival will also seek out selected festival films to place directly with domestic outlets or to assist in finding the best distributors in the foreign and domestic marketplace.

THEATRICAL DISTRIBUTION

Movie Heroes, Inc. took the theatrical world by storm late last year when they launched a Netflix style theatrical membership model to save their local theater. With almost 4000 members, their five screen, first run theater is grossing record profit and they have been covered by ABC, CBS, FOX, Slashdot, NPR, the San Francisco Chronicle, and the Los Angeles Times. They are about to take this model worldwide to help the 7000 theaters in similar situations.

Another area where Movie Hero theaters thrive is offering distribution to Independent Filmmakers. Because the theaters are membership based, the theaters can offer independent movies without the fear of low attendance. This also lets the theater promote the indie film like a studio film. Movie Hero theaters also allow direct email marketing to almost 4000 members which puts the Indie trailers directly in front of them, exposing them in the most efficient way possible and at no cost to the filmmaker. Movie Heroes will work with your distributor if you have one, or with you if you do not to help your indie film get the theatrical run you are seeking. If the film does well, extended runs are possible.

Movie Heroes is currently offering theatrical runs in its first 5 screen theater location and is seeking relationships with filmmakers, as Movie Heroes is about to launch this model Worldwide. Movie Heroes pays the filmmaker a percentage of the Gross Box Office revenue, exactly as they do the Major Studios. They charge no fees for playing the movie. This can mean large returns, especially as they acquire more theaters across the world.
